Union Superior Court.

The Fall Term of Union county Superior Court opened on Monday morning the 10th-Judge Avery presiding, and that excellent State officer, Maj. W. J. Montgomery, filling the office of Solicitor, as he has done for many years past.

The Grand Jury was composed of the following persons: A. H. Boyte, foreman, E. J. Krimminger, W. R. Helms, W. L. Simpson, Isaac G. Collins, Jas. M. Broom, W. A. Love, Henry Dry, T. E. Ashcraft, E. J. Sims, A. D. Howell, J. L. Austin, James Clontz, James McNeely, C. R. Smith, W. H. Yarborough, J. C. Eubanks and J. B. Cox.

The ordinary State cases occupied the first three or four days of the week, such as affrays, fornication and adultery, &c.

There are three or four capital cases to be tried, the most important of which is that of Stephens for stabbing Clyburn. Clyburn died on Tuesday morning last. and Stephens and Ringstaff were committed to Jail-Ringstaff as accessory to the murder.

Court will continue next week, but how much time will be allowed for Civil Cases is uncertain.

THE Secretary of the Navy did a very proper thing in arresting the cadets at the Naval Academy for "hazing," or brutal treatment to the class of new cadets. Every one engaged in such brutal conduct should be dismissed, and no College anywhere should tolerate it. Such disgraceful work was once practiced at the N. C. University, but we are informed it ages the infinite details of his business perhas been discontinued. We hope so; if it sonally, even buying the goods that are has not been stopped it should be im- sold to the laborers on his place from the mediately. "Hazing" is a disgrace to any stores run by the superintendents. The institution, and a terror which prevents following account of his plantation from many parents from sending their sons to the Constitution will be read with interest: certain colleges. Secretary Hunt's course | Col. W. C. Richardson, the great Mississippi is exactly right.

MONTGOMERY COURT.-At Montgomery county Superior Court last week, N. B. Taylor, (known as Bone Taylor,) the Moore county outlaw, was tried for killing Montgomery, C. Dowd, J. T. Legrand and Jas. A. Worthy, and defended by S. J. Pemberton, J. C. Black, J. M. Brown, M. S. Robbins, Allen Jordan and Gen. J. M. Leach. He was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to five years in the Penitentiary.

THE new Professor at the N. C. University is Mr. Joseph A. Holmes of Laurens, S. C. There were several applicants for the place, but Mr. Holmes was the only Southern man who applied, and it is stated that he was elected because of his very strong testimonials as not only very accomplished in the sciences, but also as having paid especial attention to their application to Agriculture and Mining. He graduated at Cornell University, and is said to be a man of excellent christian character and of uncommon energy, industry and talent.

WE see it stated that Col. J. McLeod Turner, the keeper of the State Capitol fell at Asheville recently, and broke his right leg just above the knee. He was blood, that of a young healthy beef, like already so crippled that he could hardly move about, and now, with a leg freshly broken, it is not possible for him to perform much service in the way of keeping the Capitol.

THE clergy and theological students in New York are arguing the question "whether it is proper for the Christian to pray for the soul of Guiteau." Ministers professing Christ's religion should find it in their hearts to pray for all, the greater the sin the more needful the prayer. The Judge in pronouncing his sentence will most likely ask mercy on his soul.

THE retirement of John D. Cameron, Esq, from the Editorial fraternity in North Carolina is a public loss. His paper at Durham, the "Recorder," was sold under mortgage, and that is the cause of Bro. Cameron's retirement. He was honest, and a true North Carolinian in every inch of his body.

The Mail-Contract Swindlers.

What is called the "Star Route" swindle, is, the manipulating of contracts with the Post Office Department for carrying the mails on cross-routes either by horse or stage. After contracts were made for such service in particular sections of the country, certain officials in the P. O. Department at Washington (especially an officer named Brady,) colleagued with others to increase the pay and get more money for the work than was at first promised. Such persons have recently been indicted and will, probably, be brought to trial. The following state ment of the matter more fully explains it:

"The particular offence which forms the basis of the Star route prosecutions is in the contract for carrying the mails from Prescott, Arizona, to Santa Fe, New Mexico. It provided for one trip a week, for which 150 hours was allowed, and the compensation was to be $18,313 per annum. Before service began at all there had been an increase ordered to seven trips a week, and "expedition" to 90 hours per trip, and the compensa-tion had been raised to $87,862 per annum. After work was begun the contractor, McDonough, sublet to Walsh. Later on the contract was terminated altogether, and a new one was made with Walsh for one trip a week of 150 hours at an annual compensation of $18,000. Then followed again the customary increase and expedition, raising the pay to $136,000 a year. The story is, in its main features, a familiar one, and likely to be reproduced with variations in the other cases. The charge is "conspiracy to defraud the government" in "causing and procuring unnecessary and improper and extravagant ad litional compensation to be paid by the United States for additional service in carrying the mails." The New York World says: "The warrants issued for the Star route people are mainly remarkable for not including one intende for Mr. W. S. Dorsey. The absence of Mr. Dorsey from a case in which he has every claim to be engaged will be connected by the public with the appearance in the case of Mr. George Bliss. who is supposed to possess much of the confidence of the President. Except Brady, the peolonged to the Khedive of Egypt, but Cel. Richardson in a crop of 12,500 bales took from the Egyptian King the first place among the cotton growers of earth. This crop was worth nearly one million dollars, and Col. Richardson has grown up to this average nearly every year since. Beyond the fact that he is the largest cotton Sewell. He was prosecuted by Solicitor grower in the world, there is no place in the South where the mere handling and cultivation of cotton can be studied so well as on his vast plantation. He has the fields in which he grows the crop, the factories in which he makes the fertilizers with which it is grown, the seed oil mills in which the seed are manipulated and oil made yarn mills in which the fiber is spun into thread and a factory with 20,000 spindles, in which the thread is made into cloth. He has the processes for making the bulk of the seed into cake for stock feed, after it has been through the oil mills, and processes for burning the hulls, from the ashes of which fertilizers are made. In fact every process for the culture or handling of cotton is gone through with on the place, and every o yield to him its ultimate profit. By these thorough and sagacious methods Col. Richardson has amassed a fortune, estimated at from six million to twenty million dollars, and has established the fact that there is no business that pays better than growing cotton with free labor and manufacturing it near the fields in which it is grown The time will soon come when capitalists will Elections were held in Ohio and Iowa last Tuesday. As usual the Republicans have carried both States. Foster was reelected Governor of Ohio.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 12,-The feature of the election in Ohio consists of Democratic gains in Republican counties, and vice ersa. This is attributed to the fact that in several Republican counties where the temperance sentiment is very strong, and where the church influence made itself particularly felt, the Republicans scratched Foster on account of the failure of the Legislature last winter to give additional legislation.

very properly says: "People will find out after awhile that although grain may be scarce in some localities, yet there is enough left to feed everybody here and a great many in Europe. There is no cause for a panic. Here and there will be found a neighborhood, or even a county, which cannot feed itself for the next twelve months, yet the average, especially here in North Carolina, is not as bad as has been feared and represented. The crops in Eastern and extreme Western North Carolina are very good; it is in the middle counties of the State that the drought has been most severe, and taken as a whole, we have reason to believe that there has been much more than enough corn raised in the State to feed everybody within its borders."

A LADY in the New York Sun, writing from Huron City, makes an appeal for the thousands of people in the burnt district of Michigan who are naked, houseless and starving, who in pitying strains cry for aid, which unless obtained must perish. Assembling of the U.S. Senate.

The U. S. Senate assembled in extra session on the 10th inst, and elected Hon. Thos. F. Bayard, Democrat, of Delaware, President, which makes him Vice President of the United States. The following first deputy commissioner of pensions. C. are the proceedings of the Senate:

Washington, Oct. 10 .- The assembling of the special session of the Senate was witnessed by a large number of people. The Senate was called to order by Harris, who, after prayer by Chaplain Bullock, said: "I have been requested by a number of Senators on both sides of the chamber to call the Senate to order. If there be no objection I will call the Senate to order that we may proceed with its business. The Senate will please come to order and the clerk will report to the Senate the session of the Senate."

The President's proclamation having been read, Mr. Pendleton moved the adoption of the following resolution:

That Thos. F. Bayard, Senator from the State of Delaware is hereby chosen President pro tem. of the Senate.

Mr. Edmunds said that, of course, he did not object to the present consideration of the resolution, but he thought that under existing circumstances it was his duty to present the credentials of the Senators elect, which he thereupon did.

The credentials having been read, Mr. Edmunds moved that the oath of office be administered to those gentlemen by Senator Anthony, senior Senator.

Mr. Pendleton moved to lay the motion on the table. Carried. Yeas 36, nays 34. Mr. Davis of Illinois, voted with the Republicans in the negative. Mahone did not vote and Platt and Fair were paired. Mr. Edmunds said no reason had been given why the Senators elect should not be allowed to take part in the organization of the Senate, and he therefore moved to amend Mr. Pendleton's resolution by providing for the immediate qualification of the Senators elect, the oath of office to be administered by Senator Anthony.

The amendment offered by Mr. Edmunds to Mr. Pendleton's resolution, gave rise to a short discussion, but was finally rejected -veas 33, navs 34. Mahone and Davis of Illinois, voting with the Republicans.

Mr. Edmunds then proposed an amendment providing that Thomas F. Bayard shall be elected presiding officer for this day only and argued in support of the amendment, contending that it would comply with both the letter and spirit of the law and would allow the States of New eral letters of his published, which are York and Rhode Island to have a voice Exports for the week, evidently given to aid in establishing the in the election of a permanent president

In moving his amendment that the oath be at once administered to the new Senators. Mr. Edmunds said no reason had been given for this attempt to exclude two States from any voice in the organization of the Senate, so he would take the liberty to state the reason himself.

Mr. Garland declined to make any reply to the intimation that the Democratic Senators had some ulterior object in view. They believed that they were acting lawfully and had no apologies to make to the Senator from Vermont, or any other person or body of persons. If they made mistake it was a mistake which they would regret. The only object of calling the Senate together so far as the country knew was to place some one between this government and possible anarchy in the case of the death or taking away by any means of the present President of the United States; hence it was a high duty and great duty which preceded all others in importance to elect at once a President pro tem. It ranked the question of swearing in a Senator and all other questions. The Democratic side proposed decently and in order and according to law to fill a possible gap at the earliest possible moment.

After some further debate, Mr Ednunds' amendment was lost-yeas 33, Mr. Edmunds then moved an amendment that Mr. Bayard be elected President pro tem, for this day only, which was re-ected by yeas 33, nays 34. that of Henry B. Anthony. Rejected- is feared that he will also be lynched.

veas 32, navs 34. Messrs. Bayard and Anthony being paired, the original resolution was then adopted. Yeas 34, nays 32. Mr. Bayard was escorted to the chair by Senators Anthony and Pendleton. On taking the chair, Mr Bayard, after acknowledging the honer paid him, said: "We are all painfully mindful of the unusual circumstances under which we meet and of the national bereavement which has caused this special session of the Senate. May it not be hoped that touched by a sense of common sorrow, and chastened by a grief that penetrates every household in one great family of States, our proceedings may be marked by a spirit of concession and harmony and generous consideration for the mutual differences of opinion and softening of partisan asperities and high intent to perform our duties in a manner responsive to the demands of the occasion and best interest of our common country? With such help and in such a spirit I now assume, and shall endeavor to perform the duties of the high position to which your favor has assigned me." OCTOBER 11.-Immediately after the reading of the journal, Mr. Edmunds moved that the oath of office be administrive. - Weldon News. tered to Nelson W. Aldrich, Senator elect from the State of Rhode Island. There being no objection, the motion was agreed to and Aldrich was sworn in.

Mr. Edmunds then made a similar motion in cases of Senators elect from New York. Mr. McPherson interposed and stated that he desired to present a petition pending that motion. He held in his hands a communication from certain members of reply. "I do know, though, that the the New York Legislature, alleging cer-tain reasons why Messrs. The Democrats in caucus this morning discussed the committee question, and without agreeing on any definite plan of message of the President convening this appointment, decided to oppose Mr. Edmund's resolution. Oct. 14, 1881. WOMAN. Her Health and Life

Depend more on the regularity of her menstrual functions than on any or all causes combined. An actual or a living death is the inevitable result of derangement of a function which makes woman what she is in every respect, and especially in her mental and bodily constitution. Hence, immediate relief from such derangements is the only safeguard against wreck and ruin. In all cases of stoppage, delay, or other irregularity of the "courses," Dr. J. Bradfield's Female Regulator is the only sure remedy. It acts by giving tone to the nervous centres, improving the blood, and determining directly to the organs of menstruation. It is a scientific prescription, and the most intelligent physicians use it.

Prepared by Dr. J. Bradfield, Atlanta, Ga. Price: trial size, 75 cents; large size, $1.50. For sale by all druggists.
